This may be due to the broad spectrum of information in social science available in use of information sources in social science research in Nigerian universities depends on the staff, technology, budget, and user education programme.

The objective of this paper is to review the existing statistical sources in Spain that may provide information on the human resources in science and technology.